

Background:

Student Enrollment departmental functions include a multitude of processes that require monitoring as they must meet compliance guidelines to be accepted, approved or adopted into actions. A number of tasks within the processes are completed by stakeholders who are often changing on a yearly basis. This constant change within the stakeholder community represents a great challenge and creates a need to increase training opportunities.

Also, schools and district departments are struggling to complete their daily duties because of the complexity and amount of effort required to operate and maintain our current student information system. This level of complexity requires a tremendous amount of staff time to ensure data are reported correctly for funding purposes and other requirements.

Refer to Data Point Definitions for an explanation of the data.
